THE MINISTER OF COMMERCE (SHRI PRANAB MUKHERJEE) : (a) to (c) The European Commission submitted a proposal for a three-year schem generalised tariff preferences Irom 1995 to 1997 for industrial products orig: L developing coul to the Council of the European Unioi 19th September, 1994. Th. not include any linkage of acce;of intellectual property rights. Theproposal,however, provide; countries could avail of, on request, with effect from 1st January, 1997, "Special incentive arrangements" fos conformance with certain interna tional J Ienvironmentalstac the new regulation /oold enter into force on 1st January, 1995. The proposal is! by the Council.

3. The central elements of the Commission's proposal are tariff "modulation"and "graduation". As per the modulation proposal, the existing volume restrictions in the form of fixed duty-free amounts and ceilings would be replaced by tariff modulation reflecting the sensitively of different sectors (products or groups of products). The eligible products would be categorised into sensitive, semi-sensitive and non-sensitive sectors (products) nnd these would be subject to differeni: rates of preferential duty. Under ihe new graduation policy, beneficiary countries which have achieved a degree of trade specialisation in certain sectors will be denied GSP for those sectors. While applying graduation in addition to the trade specialisation criterion, development factor would be taken into account.

4. Tne proposals, if accepted, are likely to affect a number of countries including India, Hongkong, Singa-I pore, South Korea, China, Thailand, i Malaysia, Brazil, Argentina, Pakistan and Indonesia. The likely effects cannot be assessed until the new scheme becomes available.
